"We whip up each of our signature chocolate chip cookies using only the freshest, preservative-free ingredients," said baker and owner, Maggie Forester Miller. "With each savory bite, our customers enjoy a mouthwatering treat. We pride ourselves on superb customer service and warmly welcome each customer into our Maggie's Cookies family. We satisfy each order one batch at a time and guarantee that customers will enjoy our cookies and return often, knowing we will take care of them."

According to Miller, Maggie's Cookies are perfect for lunchboxes, customer appreciation, weddings, holiday celebrations, showers, corporate recognition, thank-you gifts and care packages and more.

Maggie's Cookies not only ships the delicious variety of cookies, they carefully package the cookies in a variety of creative containers and quantities to suit customer needs for particular events. Package options include a variety of decorative bagged cookies, a bag of cookie crumbs for the bite-size satisfaction, cookies in a variety of attractive gift boxes including the new "Jazzy Cookie Box" keepsake, clear plastic snap-lid display containers, single-packaged party favors, party trays, cookie tins and more.

Maggie attributes her passion for baking to her grandmother's warm, old-fashioned kitchen that included a walk-in fireplace, a big round table and a grandmother's delightful and inspiring personality that was as wonderful as the smells filling the room.

"Grammy taught me to trust my instincts when baking," said Maggie. "...that recipes were suggestions and that the dough would tell us what to do. If you do something well, enjoy doing it and share it, for that is a gift that you were meant to give."

Maggie's ships their cookies throughout the United States via their website. Maggie's customer-care team encourages customers to contact them with questions and comments at www.maggiescookies.com or by calling (800) 624-4545.
